13-512

WLDF 468: Spatial Methods in Wildlife Ecology and Management: New course, 3 units total (2 of C-4, 1 C-16). "Methods and theory for studying spatial wildlife relationships: home range analysis; habitat selection and distribution models; corridor modeling and connectivity." The course will require various Geospatial courses as pre-reqs because students will use various GSP techniques in their class work. The GSP steering committee recommends that this be a WLDF course (rather than a GSP course) because the content is primarily about Wildlife and not Geospatial techniques.

13-514

Wildlife - Wildlife Management and Conservation Concentration - add new course WDLF 468 to the list of "Advanced Courses" options.
